Therefore, we ask our students to be charitable and respectful in their interactions with each other, and to remain focused on the topic of discussion, out of respect to others who have committed to being a part of this learning community. Please refer to “Guidelines for Interactions” on your course resource page at classes.tyndale.ca.

F. ASSIGNMENTS AND GRADING

1. Performance in Practice Groups: 10% of final grade

Given the nature of this course, participation at various levels is very important to learning. Each student is expected to practice the roles of counsellor and client in the small group practice sessions as often as possible to ensure skill acquisition and development. A weekly record sheet will be kept. Each student is required to audio or videotape her/his practice as counsellor. The student is responsible to bring a recording device to class and to review that recording at home. Care must be taken of any sensitive materials on these recordings. Each week the student will also observe other students practicing skills and will give feedback.

Personal feedback may be added to other self-awareness information accumulated by each student throughout the year and can be used to prepare the final self-reflection paper.

2. Homework: not graded

Homework is assigned weekly to aide students in preparing for class participation and skill acquisition.

3. Case study: Due March 2; 30% of Final Grade

Students must select one of the 5 books listed in the “Other Requirements” section of the syllabus and choose one case from the four vignettes which you believe could be treated via the therapeutic model described in the selected book. Add to the vignette by providing a brief summary of what you learned during the intake session. Drawing on the counselling micro skills you have learned in the course through lecture, and drawing from the reading you have done on your selected therapeutic model, you are required to develop and document a detailed initial therapeutic plan. The case study must include the following:

- Type of therapy (individual, couple, or family)
- Presenting issue(s)
- Current circumstance which brought client to therapy, individual and systemic predispositions and historical factors
- Risk factors which may have been already assessed, implied or suspected (including child abuse, neglect, domestic violence, suicide and/or homicide ideation)
- Therapeutic goals: (mutually set goals between client and therapist)
- Client’s theory of change and attempted solutions, if any
- Client’s strength and resources (both from client’s statements and counsellor’s observation)
- Counsellor's observations and impressions of client in sessions and how counsellor refined his/her assessment and landed on the assessment and therapeutic orientation he/she will use to conceptualize this case.
- Counsellor's hypothesis: Conceptualize the client’s story using your selected therapeutic orientation primarily, but including any secondary models that may apply. Include formulations of core issues, basics of the counselling theory and approaches being drawn on, theological factors present, client’s readiness for change, etc.
- Suggested initial therapeutic plan: Working from your selected therapeutic orientation, outline number of sessions anticipated; frequency of sessions; tasks for the client; therapeutic interventions and techniques that may be helpful; assessment instruments, if any, that may be used; other professionals or supportive people who may be helpful to involve in helping the client if any.
- Therapeutic alliance: Mention areas of strengths and potential challenges, the impact of client’s issues on you, transference and/or countertransference issues, etc.)

- References: Sources used must be documented using the format provided by the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. There should be numerous references to your chosen book from the “Other Requirements” section.

I am most interested in the student’s ability to apply a therapeutic orientation to the case, conceptualize the case through this orientation, and accurately apply interventions from that orientation to the client case in a reasonably strategic manner.

4. Demonstration of skills tape, transcript, rewritten transcript with analysis, and 3 – 4 page self-reflection paper. Due: April 13; 60% of Final Grade.

The student will be expected to record two 10 to 12 minute interviews with a “client” (a fellow classmate in role-play). The first interview will be an “intake” interview, and the second will be a “work” interview. The student will then write out a verbatim transcript of both interviews, and rewrite the interviews, replacing poor usage of the micro skills, poor direction, etc., with appropriate usage and direction, and so on (see 5 areas listed below), and reporting his/her reasons for these changes. The student is then to write a three to four page reflection paper on the development and progress he/she has made this semester on use of the counselling skills, including an identification of his/her skill preferences, style, and preferred theoretical orientation. This should include information gleaned from the several assessment tools taken in the first semester. Scoring of transcripts will be related to the student’s ability over the following 5 areas:

- Clarity and smoothness of language which includes introductions, transitions, explanations
- Absence of bias, transference, leading questions, and judgments
- Use of micro-skills to direct the session and set goals
- Appropriateness of direction and goals
- Appropriate expression of empathy, positive regard, and warmth

G. EQUITY OF ACCESS

Students with permanent or temporary disabilities who need academic accommodations must contact the Accessibility Services at the Centre for Academic Excellence to register and discuss their specific needs. New students must self-identify and register with the Accessibility Office at the beginning of the semester or as early as possible to access appropriate services. Current students must renew their plans as early as possible to have active accommodations in place.

H. SUMMARY OF ASSIGNMENTS AND GRADING

Evaluation is based upon the completion of the following assignments:

Case Study	30%
Demonstration of skills tape, transcript, etc.	60%
Weekly Small Practice Group Work	10%
Total	100%

I. GENERAL GUIDELINES FOR THE SUBMISSION OF WRITTEN WORK

1. The reflection papers should demonstrate the student’s ability to process his/her internal responses personally and professionally. The ability to reflect upon and process feelings and thoughts is an important skill in counselling work.
2. Title page: The title page should include the name of the course, name of the instructor, title of the paper/assignment, student’s name, and the date due.
3. Documentation: Papers must be written using inclusive language. Students are required to retain a copy of all assignments in hard copy or electronic form. Graduate level spelling, grammar and style are expected, and grades will be lowered if written expression is poor. Reports of psychological research should follow the rules set forth in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 7th ed. (2019). All parts of the report are typed double-spaced, and without justifying the right hand margin. Use a 12 point font (“Times New Roman” or “Courier” is preferred). The APA Style Guide is a helpful web site for all questions regarding APA style. Students are expected to honestly reflect use of materials other than their own. Tyndale does not tolerate plagiarism in any form.
4. Tyndale Seminary’s policy on late assignments will be followed. For each week late, the grade will be reduced by a letter grade. Extensions will be considered if the circumstances are extreme. No final assignments or examinations will be accepted later than 5:00 p.m. on Friday, April 15.

Academic Integrity

Integrity in academic work is required of all our students. Academic dishonesty is any breach of this integrity, and includes such practices as cheating (the use of unauthorized material on tests and examinations), submitting the same work for different classes without permission of the instructors; using false information (including false references to secondary sources) in an assignment; improper or unacknowledged collaboration with other students, and plagiarism. Tyndale University takes seriously its responsibility to uphold academic integrity, and to penalize academic dishonesty.

Students are encouraged to consult Writing Services. Citation and other tip sheets.

Students should also consult the current Academic Calendar for academic policies on Academic Honesty, Gender Inclusive Language in Written Assignments, Late Papers and Extensions, Return of Assignments, and Grading System.

Research Ethics

All course-based assignments involving human participants requires ethical review and may require approval by the Tyndale Research Ethics Board \(REB\). Check with the Seminary Dean’s Office (aa@tyndale.ca) before proceeding.

J. COURSE EVALUATION

Tyndale Seminary values quality in the courses it offers its students. End-of-course evaluations provide valuable student feedback and are one of the ways that Tyndale Seminary works towards maintaining and improving the quality of courses and the student’s learning experience. Student involvement in this process is critical to enhance the general quality of teaching and learning.

Before the end of the course, students will receive a MyTyndale email with a link to the online course evaluation. The link can also be found in the left column on the course page. The evaluation period is 2 weeks; after the evaluation period has ended, it cannot be reopened.

Course Evaluation results will not be disclosed to the instructor before final grades in the course have been submitted and processed. Student names will be kept confidential and the instructor will only see the aggregated results of the class.
