The mission of Tyndale Seminary is to provide Christ-centred graduate theological education for leaders in the church and society whose lives are marked by intellectual maturity, spiritual vigour and moral integrity, and whose witness will faithfully engage culture with the Gospel.

I. COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course provides an integrated study of the Christian life and the development of personal character shaped by the values and virtues of God's kingdom. It includes an examination of conceptual frameworks and major categories in spiritual theology, as well as understanding and practising the classical spiritual disciplines personally and corporately.

Included in this course is a 48-hour retreat in which all students must participate. It should be made following the guidelines in the book Renew (among the required texts).

II. LEARNING OUTCOMES

At the end of the course, by:

1. Participating in weekly online discussions;
2. Writing and presenting a paper reflecting on a spiritual self-evaluation;
3. Completing and reflecting upon a series of spiritual exercises;
4. Participating in a retreat and reflecting upon the experience; and
5. Writing a paper on the experience of spiritual direction, describing how the course has deepened their understanding of Christian spirituality,

Students will be able to:

1. Identify their own areas of strength and growth in their spiritual formation;
2. Discuss and practise spiritual formation as a dynamic process of 'being', initiated by the Holy Spirit; reflect on that process; recognize and discuss that one is being rooted and grounded in Christ for the sake of others;
3. Live more fully in Christ by describing dominant spiritual disciplines, selecting personally appropriate ones, and beginning to integrate them into their daily activities; and
4. Identify with, practise and demonstrate the development of personal character shaped by the values and virtues of God's Kingdom.

III. COURSE REQUIREMENTS

A. REQUIRED TEXTS

Foster, Richard. Prayer: Finding the Heart's True Home. New York: HarperCollins, 1992.

Nouwen, Henri. Genesee Diary: Report from a Trappist Monastery. Revised ed. New York: Doubleday, 1981.

Sherbino, David. Re-Connect: Spiritual Exercises to Develop Intimacy with God. Toronto: Castle Quay Books, 2013.

Sherbino, David. Renew: A Basic Guide For A Personal Retreat. Toronto: Castle Quay Books, 2015.

Wardle, Terry. Outrageous Love, Transforming Power: How the Holy Spirit Shapes You Into the Likeness of Christ. Siloam Springs, Arkansas: Leafwood Publishers, 2004.

B. SUPPLEMENTARY / RECOMMENDED READING AND TOOLS

Tyndale recommends www.stepbible.org – a free and reputable online resource developed by Tyndale House (Cambridge, England) – for word searches of original-language texts, as well as for topical searches, interlinear texts, dictionaries, etc. Refer to the library for other online resources for Biblical Studies.

C. ASSIGNMENTS AND GRADING

☞ Note that all assignments are to be submitted electronically via the course Moodle.

1. Attendance & Participation

Due to the nature of the course, each member is expected to participate fully in online discussions and in the practical dimension of the course. Attendance in this course is demonstrated by regular log-ins and up-to-date participation in forums.

Online conversations, in individual and group discussions, will be based on questions from the lectures. Here is a suggested schedule outlining how you should structure your week:

- Monday: Read the discussion question, go over the weekly online materials, spend some time reading the texts.
- Tuesday: Spend more time reading the texts, formulate and post your personal response to the online discussion question. (This will be to the full class in the first two weeks, and to a group into which you will be placed beginning in week 3.)
- Wednesday: Post your reaction to the responses of your class/group members.
- Thursday: Beginning in week 3, formulate and post your personal synthesis of the discussions and responses of your group. These become the basis for your group summary. The group summaries will be made by each group member on rotation for the remainder of the semester.
- Friday: Beginning in week 3, post a response to your group summary.
- Saturday: Beginning in week 3, one member of each group posts the group summary and all students respond to other group summaries.

You will be graded on five weeks of discussion, chosen at random by the Instructor, as outlined in the rubric. Note, again, that each group member is to take a turn at formulating the group summary, and part of the online discussion grade is given to that.

2. Personal Self-Evaluation: Due Monday, May 27; worth 15% of the Final Grade

Based on your reading of Wardle, Outrageous Love, Transforming Power, engage in a personal spiritual self-evaluation using the eight topics listed in the book, preparing an 8-page paper. Note areas where you feel stronger and areas where you need to grow; be as specific as possible. Choose a Bible verse – perhaps one mentioned in the relevant chapter – that can encourage you to grow in each area noted in the book.

Conclude by stating one key learning from the book that you intend to work on as you mature in faith. Discuss it with your spiritual director to keep you accountable.

3. Spiritual Exercises: Due Monday, June 24; worth 15% of the Final Grade

You are required to read a chapter each week from Sherbino, Re-Connect: Spiritual Exercises to Develop Intimacy with God, and do the exercises in preparation for weekly interaction. (Note that chapter 8 is 'bonus' material, and does not require reflection.) Do not submit your workbook, or your complete reflections on the workbook. Submit a four-page summary of your reflections, indicating how many chapters you completed, summarizing your reflections on the exercises, and emphasizing one discipline you found especially encouraging, and one discipline you found especially challenging. Be sure to begin the exercises not later than the first week of class, and preferably before the class begins, in order to complete the workbook and submit your assignment on time.

4. Retreat and Reflection Paper: Due Monday, July 8; worth 15% of the Final Grade

The 48-hour retreat is intended to be an opportunity to practice and experience some of the spiritual disciplines in a guided fashion. Be sure to read the Nouwen text before beginning your retreat. At the end of the retreat, you will write a 4-6 page paper reflecting on your experience. In this paper try to identify with the experiences of Henri Nouwen in Genesee Diary. In particular, focus on the issues of silence, solitude, community, and worship as you experienced them in your retreat, in comparison with how Nouwen experienced them at Genesee Abbey. Again, please note that making a retreat is mandatory for all students. It can be made with others or on your own, at a retreat centre or elsewhere, as long as the setting allows for sufficient time of silence and solitude. If you are planning to combine your retreat with another event, please speak to the Instructor to ensure it will be appropriate. Note in your paper where you made your retreat. Plan early and book your retreat ahead of time.

5. Spiritual Direction Reflection & Integration Paper:

Due Monday, August 5; worth 25% of the Final Grade

Each participant is required to have a trained spiritual director during this course. You are required to meet for a minimum of six sessions, approximately every two weeks, for focused conversation and prayer. Keep a journal of your meetings and record your reflections, insights, and struggles. Write a 6-8 page reflection paper integrating what has been helpful from (a) your overall experience with the spiritual director, and (b) your reading of Foster's Prayer and the impact it had on your prayer life as discussed with your spiritual director. Give special consideration to anything in your reading which has challenged your image of God, and your self-image as a child of God. Conclude by writing about one thing you learned in the course that stands out the most, that you hope to integrate into your life. It may be from the lectures, the readings, your retreat, and/or the online discussions.

Again, you must meet with your trained spiritual director for a minimum of six sessions. You must indicate in your paper the number of times you have actually met. Be sure to request that your spiritual director spend time reflecting with you on the Foster text.

If you already have a spiritual director, please continue to meet with him or her regularly during the course. If you do not have a spiritual director, you can seek one in or near your community, or through one of the following means:

- Tyndale's Spiritual Direction Practicum (a list of student directors will be posted on the class page);
- Tyndale Association of Spiritual Directors (<http://tyndale.ca/seminary/tasd/practitioners>); or
- Evangelical Spiritual Directors Association (<http://graftedlife.org/esda/search>).

Meetings via telephone, Skype or FaceTime are acceptable when distance is a factor and the spiritual director is willing to do so. It will be imperative for you to arrange for your spiritual director in advance of the start of the course. Confirm with the instructor when you have obtained a spiritual director, and email him with that person’s contact information.

Note that a spiritual director is not the same as a pastor, counsellor or friend. A spiritual director is someone with training in the art of spiritual direction and who is regularly supervised. The person may be, but need not be, a Certified Spiritual Director (CSD).

Student Time Expectation Table

The following is an estimate of the amount of time that you will need to devote to this course. These are guidelines only; some may go faster and some may go slower.

	% of Grade	Average Time Required	Average Weekly Time Required
Weekly Reading and Listening (12 weeks)	--	60 hours	5 hours/week
Graded Discussion (based on 5 wks)	30%	20 hours	2 hour/week
Short Essay	10%	10 hours (student schedules)
Spiritual Exercises	15%	12 hours
Retreat & Reflection Paper	20%	7 hours (student schedules)
Spiritual Direction Reflection Paper	25%	17 hours
Total Grade	100 %	126 hours	10.5 hours/week (average)

D. EQUITY OF ACCESS

Students with permanent or temporary disabilities who need academic accommodations must contact the Accessibility Services at the Centre for Academic Excellence to register and discuss their specific needs. New students must self-identify and register with the Accessibility Office at the beginning of the semester or as early as possible to access appropriate services. Current students must renew their plans as early as possible to have active accommodations in place.

E. SUMMARY OF ASSIGNMENTS AND GRADING

Evaluation is based upon the completion of the following assignments:

Online Discussion Forums	25%
Spiritual self-evaluation, due May 27	15%
Spiritual Exercises, due June 24	15%
Retreat Reflection Paper, due July 8	15%
Spiritual Direction Reflection Paper, due August 5	30%
Total Grade	100%

F. GENERAL GUIDELINES FOR THE SUBMISSION OF WRITTEN WORK

Late papers are penalized one-third of a letter grade per week.

Extension without penalty is granted in cases of a death in the family or personal illness. In the case of illness there must be a doctor's certificate. All requests must be submitted prior to the due date of the assignment.

For proper citation style, consult the Chicago-Style Quick Guide (Tyndale e-resource) or the full edition of the Chicago Manual of Style Online, especially ch. 14. For citing scripture texts, refer to sections 10.44 to 10.48 and 14.238 to 14.241.

Academic Integrity

Integrity in academic work is required of all our students. Academic dishonesty is any breach of this integrity, and includes such practices as cheating (the use of unauthorized material on tests and examinations), submitting the same work for different classes without permission of the instructors; using false information (including false references to secondary sources) in an assignment; improper or unacknowledged collaboration with other students, and plagiarism. Tyndale University College & Seminary takes seriously its responsibility to uphold academic integrity, and to penalize academic dishonesty.

Students are encouraged to consult writing resources.

Students should also consult the current Academic Calendar for academic policies on Academic Honesty, Gender Inclusive Language in Written Assignments, Late Papers and Extensions, Return of Assignments, and Grading System.

Research Ethics

All course-based assignments involving human participants requires ethical review and approval by the Tyndale Research Ethics Board \(REB\). Check with the Seminary Office (Room B302; aa@tyndale.ca) before proceeding.

G. COURSE EVALUATION

Tyndale Seminary values quality in the courses it offers its students. End-of-course evaluations provide valuable student feedback and are one of the ways that Tyndale Seminary works towards maintaining and improving the quality of courses and the student's learning experience. Student involvement in this process is critical to enhance the general quality of teaching and learning.

Before the end of the course, students will receive a MyTyndale email with a link to the online course evaluation. The link can also be found in the left column on the course page. The evaluation period is 2 weeks; after the evaluation period has ended, it cannot be reopened.

Course Evaluation results will not be disclosed to the instructor before final grades in the course have been submitted and processed. Student names will be kept confidential and the instructor will only see the aggregated results of the class.

Studies in the Spirituality and Theology of Individuals

Auclair, Marcelle. Saint Teresa of Avila. Pantheon Books, 1953. (Well documented, objective study of a real person)

Bettoni, Efrem. St. Bonaventure. Notre Dame: University of Notre Dame Press, 1966 (an Italian writer summarized the thought and spiritual character of Bonaventure)

Bolshakoff, Sergius. Russian Mystics. Cistercian Publications, 1966. (a biographical outline of little known mystics in the west)

Bordeaux, Henri. Saint Francis de Sales: Theologian of Love. Langmans, Green, 1929. (A frank book of his human qualities and short-comings, both of which qualified him to advise others)

Brown, Peter. Augustine of Hippo. Faber and Faber, 1967. (a brilliant and incisive biography written in a secular frame)

Burnaby, John. Amor Dei. 1938. (a classic on Augustine's love of God)

Chesterton, G.K. Saint Thomas Aquinas: The Dumb Ox. New York: Image, 1956. (a witty, shrewd study that captures the spirit of Aquinas)

Dallimore, Arnold A. George Whitefield. Cornerstone Books, 2 vol., 1979. (exhaustive and inspiring life of a great man)

Dessain, C.S. The Spirituality of John Henry Newman. Winston Press, 1977. (a study of the spiritual "wholeness" of life Newman sought)

Freemantle, Anne. Desert Calling. Henry Holt and Co., 1969.

Greaves, Richard L. John Bunyan. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1969. (Bunyan's thought exposed through Bunyan's Pilgrim)

Guardini, Romano. Pascal for our Time. New York: Herder and Herder, 1960. (affective study on what happens to a man who believes in God)

Goudge, Elizabeth. Saint Francis of Assisi. London: Hodder and Stoughton, 1959. (there are numerous, larger and more authoritative studies of Francis, but none are written more sympathetically and of personal application than this)

Hoffman, Bengt R. Luther and the Mystics. Minneapolis: Augsburg, 1976. (a rather dull study, re-examining Luther's spiritual experience and his relationship to the mystics, but there is little else available on this lively, human being)

Johnston, William. The Mysticism of the Cloud of Unknowing. Anthony Clarke Books, 1978. (the first coherent theological study on this unknown author, with a preface by Thomas Merton on the nature and dangers of mysticism)

Leclerc, Jean. Bernard of Clairvaux and the Cistercian Spirit. Cistercian Publications, 1976. (an authoritative description of the many-sided facets of this remarkable leader of the 12th century)

Martin, Hugh. Puritanism and Richard Baxter. London: S.C.M., 1954. (there is a dearth of any lively biographies on the Puritans, so this is a rather dull description of a pastor)

Peers, Allison E. Spirit of Flame. London: S.C.M., 1963. (a balanced study of the life and character of St John of the Cross)

Richard, Lucien Joseph. The Spirituality of John Calvin. Louisville: John Knox Press, 1976. (a catholic writer's appreciation of the spiritual environment and traditions in what Calvin developed)

Sanders, E.K. Fenelon. Langmans, Green, 1901. (a factual study of Fenelon, his friends and enemies, 1661-1715)

Toon, Peter and Smout. John Charles Ryle. Reines, 1976. (a matter of fact biography of an inspiring saint)

Tuttle, Robert G. John Wesley, his life and theology. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 1978. (A passionate study of a passionate man)

D. SPIRITUAL DISCIPLINES

Diverse theological traditions have provided the Christian with a rich range of perspectives. These are sub-divided to help the reader seek what is needed personally, and bracketed to explain their ecclesiastical bias.

A GUIDE TO SPIRITUAL READING (from Dr. David Sherbino)

by J.M. Houston

Our lives are both private and public. But the pressures of our culture are to believe the public activities, duties and responsibilities are more important. Function then becomes more valued than being. Meanwhile, our souls get starved, and the inner person within us cries out for fulfillment of deeper needs. We long for a deeper, more real spiritual life. For we sense we are unauthentic when we are only professors and promoters in the shallows of life. We know that we must nourish this drive to know God.

This is the purpose of this reading list, not as a comprehensive list you must read, master and know, to have a "how-to kit for spirituality," but as suggestive of what might introduce you to the classics of faith and devotion, and to other helpful material. There is, however, an art in devotional reading that is not exegetical, not informational, nor literary in its emphasis. For spiritual reading is essentially formative of the soul before God. We need then to read this devotional literature in such a way that it helps us be inspired and in tune with God, in "the inner man." It is writing which turns us heavenward, and is formative of our character in Christ.

Curiously, however, in spite of the spate of new books and reprints of this spiritual literature, there is little guidance offered how the art of spiritual reading can and should be cultivated. The following guidelines are suggested to help you focus on this art.

First Guideline

Spiritual reading requires a primary emphasis on the devotional use of Scripture. So not allow the excitement of entering into devotional literature detract you from the priority you give to Bible study and meditation on the Scriptures. For remember, the Scriptures are the canon of the devotion of God's people, who saw the Scriptures as God's revelation, as guided by the Holy Spirit.

Devotional reading by theological students is made difficult by the admixture of methods used. This mixture is inevitable, and not bad, provided we slowly begin to allow the text to speak to us personally, rather than being detached from it as abstraction, more information or more hypothetical knowledge.

Second Guideline

Growing in the art of devotional reading is less a matter of techniques and more a matter of attitudes of heart. It is like developing "a sixth sense," of reading interiorly, as distinct from reading to others, informing them or teaching them. So the changed attitude is from seeking information and know how, to being inspired and transformed. Devotional reading is more dwelling on meanings about life. The former looks for transparency, and the latter is content to contemplate mysteries. Again, informational reading is more dialectical and comparative, where logic is important. But devotional reading is more docile and receptive, rather than critical and comparative.

Again informational reading tends toward being dissective, taking data to pieces by analysis, in order to increase erudition. But devotional reading is more living and dynamic, seeking to relate the material given into living situations. For this reason, devotional reading is more personal, allowing the reader to interpret its insights in such personal forms of assimilation as a spiritual journal and the practice of prayer. In these ways, the effects of interior reading are personalized and deepened, to affect and shape character, nourish the soul, and permeate the whole of one's life.

Third Guideline

Devotional reading is an art gained by facilitating conditions and circumstances, rather than by cognitive techniques. It is God's grace which alone prompts us to have any desires for God, and therefore any thirst for spiritual literature. Since we cannot invent, create or refashion "facilitating conditions" for our own sanctity, or become better listeners to God's guiding Word, "facilitating conditions and circumstances" are those which help remove obstacles to the action of grace.

In the history of the Church, as well as in the history of the soul, we experience "the desert" as such a facilitating condition. We feel "the desert within" of loneliness, "the desert outside" of relationships. Desert silence and solitude may be an experience. We re-learn the priorities and essentials of life in the spiritual experiences of the desert. We discover new dimensions there of self-knowledge. We need patience, fortitude, and acceptance of desert suffering. We discover dependence and need of God in new ways. There, we reverse the worldly values of self-reliance towards dependence upon God, the dynamic of spiritual life.

A re-awakening of the consciousness of indwelling sin in the believer, and a sensitivity to the reality of Satan also drive us to our knees. We discover the great Puritan classics on the pathology of the heart, its deceptions, its hiddenness, its inaccessibility to our control. Temptation is a constant reality, requires a more watchfulness, alerted by the writings of those experiences in its subtleties. Repentance becomes a lived reality that needs support and comfort.

A desire to re-set our course in life, after failure and dishonesty with our soul, intensifies our search to learn how others have done so. Spiritual restoration is not seen as a return to the status quo, but as a radical change in direction into unknown territory, where we can walk "more by faith than by sight." Seeing life with deeper meaning calls for much greater spiritual resources than we ever imagined previously we would need.

Such deeper surrender to the will and purpose of God, after the defeat of self-will, creates longing in the soul for inner peace, spiritual gentleness, serenity, and spiritual refreshment. A deeper understanding and experience of the love of God, creates a desire to build up covenant relations in friendships that embody the reality of God in social relationships. Moved by God's grace and compassion, we look below the marred and shattered forms of human relations, to the potentials of redemption.

Fourth Guideline

Devotional reading has its own pace of assimilation, just as the speedy insights of the mind, or the transformation of thought into action, or the assimilation of deed into character, have their relative paces. The motion toward Godliness is the slowest pace of human actions. Inauthenticity occurs when we move too fast, inappropriate to the nature of the transformation. Devotional reading needs its own time, that is not determined by the academic calendar, nor the impatience we have for "instant results." Spiritual classics cannot be read in one evening, like detective novels. Such slow motion requires a regular habit of fixed times for such devotional reading, and an unhurried leisure to learn the disciplines of meditation and contemplation.

Devotional reading requires also space in our lives. Literally, this may lead to the habit of a particular environment being developed - one spot in our room that locates an "altar" of devotion. Physically, it may require comfort, a particular chair, an accustomed posture, where we learn most readily to relax, and where the atmosphere is made for such exercises of devotion. Spaces are associated by activities, such as the library where we study, the lounge where we talk, the class- room where we learn. Devotional reading requires a quiet spot, habitually frequented in solitude.

Fifth Guideline

Choose the work you want to read devotionally carefully for the benefit of your own soul. Choose it then, possibly with the advice of others. Keep in mind that the book should be chosen to open the doors of perception for you in terms of new as well as existing needs and desires. An imitation of others may not be the best reason for your choice. Because its purpose is to nurture the unique conditions of your own life, individual choice is important. At the same time, bear in mind books we reject today may be re-discoveries later because we are then ready for their insight.

Personal adoption of a book is also helped by marking the text. This may record our first reactions to what we read, of approval, of help, or of questioning and rejection. It may also help to keep a spiritual journal which we feed with quotations reflected upon and assimilated, from the text. Such a reflective notebook may record the immediate reactions to the text, the state of mind we were in when we read a passage, as well as to duties faithfully performed as a response to what we read. Recordings of ordinary feelings and happenings set within the framework of the devotional readings keep the realities of ordinary life before us. Writing down our thoughts on the text are more permanently retained and remembered, as well as making the meaning of the message clearer and available to us. This written reflection becomes a further means of nurturing our spiritual life. On re-reading our notes later, we may see an over-confidence, or self- centeredness, or dogmatism, or judgmental attitude on our part, of which we were previously unconscious, but have now recognized to be in need of correction.

Sixth Guideline

Use your choice of the spiritual classics for the exercise of true ecumenicity. Range widely and without prejudice over the classics of devotion, Orthodox, Catholic, and Protestant. From our perspective of history and cultural change, we can read more appreciatively of other traditions. Their encapsulation within their own culture helps us also see how likely we are entrapped by our culture too.

Do not let the great merits of the Reformation block your view of the past, so that you think there is nothing between the New Testament and 1520 worth reading! Enjoy richly the devotions of the patristic, medieval, modern and contemporary periods alike. Discover the communion of saints, as a living reality in all periods of history. Do not let modernity make you temporarily parochial.

Discern the spirits wisely, by penetrating to the presuppositions and assumptions of theological stance, of your writers. Learn to distinguish false from valid mysticism.

Seventh Guideline

Enjoy fellowship with soul-friends, so that you mutually benefit in a group, a shared reading program. Such a group may meet every three or four weeks to hear and discuss books reviewed in turn, by members of the group. Discernment and shared enrichment are thereby exercised together. Insights may be shared of a more personal nature as confidentiality is developed. Differing perspectives may correct or add to individual impressions. The common goal of growing in Christ is emphasized as a corporate maturity that excludes no one in the group.

Eighth Guideline

Recognize that spiritual reading meets with obstacles to distract, discourage, or dissuade us from persistence in our reading. Often we do not see clearly enough what the obstacles are, other than that we seem to lose interest or get distracted easily by other things.

A first obstacle to remove is the time-bound and cultural or theological perspective of what we are reading. The imagery of a book, like Teresa's Interior Castle or Bunyan's Holy War, is bound to a particular time and culture. Nevertheless, the truths and insights contained in such works are timeless. The message of surrender and desire in the one book, or of watchfulness in temptation in the other are timeless. Try not to be prejudiced with such labels as "old fashioned," "relevant for today," "traditional" or even "classic."

We may dislike allegory, or be impatient with the turgid, heavy style of a sermon. Or we may be entranced so much by the romantic imager that we lose sight of the truth being conveyed. For being enraptured, just as much as being turned off, we may remain spectators, not really involved spiritually and personally in the text, and its meaning to us. We remain connoisseurs with no real personal involvement. Many works of scholars are just doing literary criticism with no spiritual food for the soul.

A third obstacle is taking this further into the scholastic games played with the text: such as one-up-manship, where we create novelty of interpretation; or name-dropping, when we review all that everyone else has said about the text; or negative listening, where we ignore all that is said positively and only draw attention to what is not said, and what we think should be said. Such reading is shallow, in spite or apparent erudition, and rejects the docility and abiding in the text which we have already described as necessary for devotional reading.

A fourth obstacle is the ensuing despondency when we compare our state negatively and unfavourably with the spiritual condition of the writer. We can feel so miserable about our sinful, inconsistent weak condition spiritually that we are tempted to feel we should ignore such spiritual books that show us up so badly. Yet we learn precisely in this way that God can do nothing with our self-sufficiency, self-reliance, and self-respect. Acceptance of our limitations, repentance, and pleas for redemption from God, these are the basis for spiritual growth.

Finally, discouragement will rear its ugly head, even when there are signs all around us of encouragement and blessing. Patience with God's ways, trust in God's control of our circumstances, persistence when spiritual exercises seem fruitless, are all needed. The seed has to die, to bear much fruit. Whether then, God leads us into the desert or into the garden in our devotional reading, let us follow Him. Accept mortification, as much as blessing, in your spiritual reading.

Ninth Guideline

Seek a balance in your reading, both between modern and ancient, as well as in the range of your affections being nourished and strengthened by good reading. Remember contemporary literature is untried, lacks vintage, and often reflects the fads of the market place. As C.S. Lewis has said:

A new book is still on trial, and the amateur is not in a position to judge it... The only safety is to have a standard of plain, central Christianity ("mere Christianity" as Baxter called it), which puts the controversies of the moment in their proper perspective. Such a standard can only be acquired from old books. It is a good rule, after reading a new book, never to allow yourself another new one till you have read an old one in between. If that is too much for you, you should read an old one to every three new ones." ("On the Reading of Old Books," God in the Dock, edit. by Walter Hooper, Eerdmans, 1970).

Examine also the need of balanced reading. In this same essay, Lewis gives us his preferences. Match, he argues, the somewhat "astringent" Imitation of Christ by Thomas a Kempis, with the "joyous" Centuries of Meditations by Thomas Traherne. Perhaps sandwich in between them the anonymously written Theologia Germanica which Luther loved. For Lewis, frequent companions were Richard Hooker's Laws of Ecclesiastical Polity, George Herbert's poems, The Temple, William Law's A Serious Call to a Devout and Holy Life, and Francis de Sales' Introduction to the Devout Life. Some books, once read may build important foundations, such as Boethius' On the Consolations of Philosophy, which gave Lewis a firm awareness of the solidity of eternity that was more than measureless time. For every young enquirer or convert, Augustine's Confessions were Lewis' choice in inspiring the reality of the soul's relationship before God. However, Lewis' boon companions were G.K. Chesterton as his intellectual mentor on the sanity of the Christian faith, and George MacDonald who fed his imagination with true devotion.

Lewis, however, would have us not slavishly imitate his fancies, but encourage us to find devotion in heavy theological stuff as well as theology in the lived experiences of simple things. He made friends with books in the whole range of affections we need to develop and exercise before God. Today, we tend to suffer from illiteracy of too much rapid, superficial reading - or rather mere glancing at books. Digestion, assimilation and then a life's time companionship with a book is a good test to see whether it is really a classic of faith and devotion, or not.
